The game has received generally positive reviews from critics, though many of them attributed the game's success to its unique premise. In 2021, a review published by "PC Gamer" gave "Rust" an eight out of ten score and praised it for its "very interesting take on survival". Andrew Webster of IGN gave the game a 7.5/10, stating that despite its flaws, "Rust" was one of the few games providing a dynamic, open world survival experience on the PC. He went on to say that even though he believes the game may not appeal to everyone due to its in-your-face realism, he still encourages other fans looking for such a game to try it out.",

On July 14th 2021, developers Facepunch Studios were forced to remove the games "furry" character models after the studio were sent a legal letter from the Australian High Court. Although this issue was later resolved in favor of Facepunch Studios, it highlighted the ongoing issues over intellectual property rights regarding cosmetic character items for online video games. The game has received mixed reviews. Rami Ismail, co-founder of indie game development blog Vlambeer, describes the gameplay of "Rust" as similar to a DayZ-style open world survival game, but says it is "a hundred times better in many ways". He stated that the biggest improvement is in how "Rust" handles players' mood. In DayZ and other games like it, he said that players are constantly forced to make decisions about how they want to spend their time: by killing zombies or by doing a little bit of both. In "Rust", players have a greater degree of control over their consumption of resources; Ismail said that the game's resource system allows players to scavenge for wood, metal and other supplies, allowing them to build items and take care of their daily needs without having to worry about starvation. This, he said, makes camping as a survival mechanic far less useful than it is in DayZ or "Minecraft".",
